DETAILED ACTION

Applicant's election with traverse of the species of Figure 2 in the reply filed on 9/22/05 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that the species are not distinct. This is not found persuasive because the species can be claimed in such a way as to make them patentable distinct and a burden to locate and apply art to.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 14-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Bullock '995.

In regard to claim 14 the patent to Bullock '995 discloses a navigation interface system with a portable electronic device 116. The application module is user configurable (customized), as recited in column 3, line 1. A navigation library 104 has navigation module 134, guidance module 128, mapping module 146 and routing module 140. The application module 116 selectively interfaces the modules in the navigational library. T In regard to claim 15 the device 116 can be a PDA, as recited in column 3, line 4. In regard to claim 16, see Figure 1. In regard to claim 17 see column 4, lines 1-15. In regard to claim 18 the navigational library 104 is on a removable computer readable medium. In regard to claim 19, see column 3, lines 40-50. In regard to claim 20, the device generates a route as an operation.
